Thank You!

Thank you to the Dickens Project, John Jordan, Courtney Mahaney, Renee Fox, and the Friends of the Dickens Project for making this conference possible. Thank you faculty respondents & moderators, including Monique Morgan, Rachel Teukolsky, James Adams, Daniel Stout, and Michael Cohen, who responded to grad student papers from afar. Thanks also to Christy Gray, George Haggerty, Tori Wurm, Michael David Jordan, the UCR CHASS Dean's Office, and Dean Milagros Peña. Special thanks to our faculty mentor, Susan Zieger.

Visiting Downtown Riverside

Coffee Shops

- 1) Molino's coffee (across the street from the Mission Inn)
An easy walk from the hotel; connected to the quirky Antique Mall.
- 2) Augies coffee (12th Street & Main)
The best coffee, tea, and Matcha in Riverside; vegan and GF friendly.

Food & Drinks

- 3) Tio's Tacos: Local, inexpensive Mexican food in an outdoor recycled sculpture garden.
- 4) Heroes: Giant plates of American food, and very large beers for a decent price.
- 5) Clark's Nutrition: Supermarket with ready-made meals ideal for dietary restrictions.
- 6) Elephant Thai: Nice tables for dine-in. Connected to a cocktail bar; vegetarian friendly.
- 7) Romano's Downtown: Spacious/plenty of seating. Italian food, appetizers, and drinks.
- 8) The Salted Pig: Hip pub with a large beer selection. Limited options for vegetarians.
- 9) Sevilla: Spanish tapas and great sangria. Good for sharing; pescatarian friendly.
- 10) W. Wolfskill: Swanky-hipster small plates and cocktails in a dimly-lit atmosphere.

Green line = Riverside Dickens Festival (free & open to the public): Saturday and Sunday, on Main Street between University Ave. and 11th. Visit dickensfest.com for more information.
